

NEWS RELEASE 4 OCTOBER 2005

IMPUMELELO TOP 300 COMPANIES AWARDS
DR SURVÉ – TOP BUSINESSMAN OF THE YEAR 2005

The Chairman of Sekunjalo Investments Limited, Dr Wallace Mgoqi extends his congratulations to Sekunjalo's Chief Executive, Dr Iqbal Survé who was the winner of the Top businessman of the Year Award at the Annual 2005 Impumelelo Awards Ceremony.

The Impumelelo Top Empowerment Awards is South Africa's most anticipated annual empowerment awards. The glittering Awards Gala held at Sun City this year saw South Africa's top black owned and empowered companies, black businessmen and women and personalities honoured for their work in and to black economic empowerment.

Richard Fletcher, Chairman of Top Companies said "the Awards celebrate the success of South Africa's top achievers who have made strides in the international business sphere by installing significant confidence in Africa and its new business model. The Awards celebrated not only South Africa's Top Companies but also individuals who have contributed to the growth and success of the country, business development and achieved excellence in broad based black economic empowerment and social investment.

The distinguished panel of judges chose Dr Survé as the overall award winner from the 5 nominees in the categories of Top Business Personality, Men. Dr Mgoqi said that the group is exceptionally proud of Dr Survé's achievements since he won the award from distinguished nominees such as Patrice Motsepe, Lazarus Zim, Eric Molobi and Tokyo Sexwale.

South Africa's Top Empowerment Companies, Sam Dominy said "these awards are a tribute to those men and women throughout South Africa who have demonstrated an unparalleled commitment to empowerment, social upliftment and human development. And that commitment is one that they carry through to all aspects of their lives: they live and breathe and inner spirit of transformation and carry that through to the benefit of all South Africans."

Dr Survé said, "I am humbled to receive the award especially considering the prestigious nominees. This award is a validation of the value system and business model which I have strongly advocated and implemented at Sekunjalo". Dr Survé further went on to say "I want to thank the Sekunjalo team, employees and directors for the opportunity to lead and participate in numerous activities which allow for the implementation of a sustainable business model". He further said "this award gives me renewed energy to continue with the numerous CSI and NGO initiatives to which I have given considerable time over the last few years. It is my belief that the most important Award one can receive is when one gives of oneself and then sees the hope and upliftment of others.

Dr Mgoqi said that Sekunjalo is proud of Dr Survé who is a rising star and entrepreneur of world class standard. He added that this award added to Dr Survé's numerous achievements over the years including recently receiving the National Business Awards 2005, Business Personality Award as well as being appointed to the Advisory Board of the Clinton Global Initiative. Sekunjalo's Chairman further said that "Iqbal is one of the few people in the business community genuinely committed to the reduction of poverty through social entrepreneurship". He said "Iqbal epitomizes the spirit of entrepreneurial business qualities required to make South Africa and Africa great and creates a place that inspires confidence in all its people by providing hope for millions to emerge out of poverty and despair.
